Areas of Law:

My main specialist areas are Legislation (including legislative drafting and advice on statutory interpretation) and Public Policy, but I do also provide general legal services.

I do have experience in Shipping (Admiralty/Maritime) work and I am the local correspondent for a number of International Group P&I Clubs.

Background:

I have over 12 years specialist experience in Legislative Drafting and the law making process, having worked for the UK Government Legal Service and the Falkland Islands Government.

Before becoming a government lawyer, I had trained with Clifford Chance in London and Brussels and stayed with that firm as a shipping litigator for 3 years after qualifying.

I now work full-time as the Assistant News Editor for Falklands Radio. However, I am still a Legal Practitioner in the Falkland Islands and I run my own independent law practice and consultancy (Ronnie MB - Law & Policy) on a part-time basis.
